Officer Dakovich moved to Detective Investigations

PLEASANT HILL, Iowa – The City of Pleasant Hill has moved one police officer who has 12 years of experience with the Police Department to the rank of detective. Officer Heidi Dakovich has moved into the Detective position and will work alongside Detective Ron Zimmerman, who has been in the detective role three years.

“Detective Dakovich is a long-standing member of our police force and brings a great deal of experience and expertise,” said Police Chief Al Pizzano. “She has proudly served our department in many capacities and I look forward to seeing her excel in the Detective role. She truly enjoys serving the community and her passion will be seen in this new role.”

Dakovich has been employed with the City of Pleasant Hill Police Department as an officer since 2004. A few of Dakovich’s assignments throughout the past 12 years include serving as an officer include Field Training Officer, School Resource Officer, D.A.R.E. Instructor, Field Sobriety Test Instructor, and Crime Free Multi-Housing Liaison for the Department. Over the past several years, Dakovich has had the opportunity to investigate criminal cases from start to finish and recently received training in Crime Scene Evidence Collection.

“It has been rewarding to be able to supplement the different areas of this department including patrol, assisting business owners, and the citizens within this community,” said Detective Dakovich. “Being able to laterally move into the investigations division full-time is rewarding and I look forward to continuing to serve the public while working closely with other law enforcement divisions.”
